The Basque Block
When not in use by one of the two dancing groups that call it home, the Basque Center is a venue that’s sure to have your attendees talking long after your event ends. The Center has two halls available for rental and a fully-equipped commercial kitchen. But what really makes this venue shine is the surrounding area, known as The Basque Block. The Boise Basque community assembled here in the 1800s, and their heritage makes this a rich and vibrant neighborhood. Incorporate one of the many festivals or performances into your gathering or build downtime into your agenda for exploration of the market and eateries.

Boise Centre
The sprawling Boise Centre, Idaho’s premier convention center, recently expanded to 86,000 square feet of meeting space and breakout rooms to the city’s vibrant, urban core. The Centre is walking distance to 1,250 hotel rooms and only a seven minute drive from the airport!

Idaho Shakespeare Festival
Take advantage of the fresh air at Idaho Shakespeare Festival Amphitheater and Reserve. Availability of this mesmerizing outdoor amphitheater and habitat reserve varies depending on scheduled stage shows and time of year. The local flora and fauna complement the 770-seat amphitheater, creating an experience that reflects Boise’s unique combination of urban cultural amenities and a picture-perfect natural setting.

The Basque Block
When not in use by one of the two dancing groups that call it home, the Basque Center is a venue that’s sure to have your attendees talking long after your event ends. The Center has two halls available for rental and a fully-equipped commercial kitchen. But what really makes this venue shine is the surrounding area, known as The Basque Block. The Boise Basque community assembled here in the 1800s, and their heritage makes this a rich and vibrant neighborhood. Incorporate one of the many festivals or performances into your gathering or build downtime into your agenda for exploration of the market and eateries.

JUMP
Jack’s Urban Meeting Place, or JUMP, is a non-profit, interactive, creative center and community gathering place. It’s a place, but more importantly a lively fusion of environment, experiences, and surprises designed to spark new interests and uncover talents you may not even know you have. It’s a new and unique type of community space that takes the best of parks, galleries, creative studios, music venues, interactive exhibits, and meeting and performance spaces, and co-mingles them all together into one shared space for the purpose of explorative play.

Boise Depot
Elegant and richly designed, the Boise Depot will add a dash of late 1800s glamour to your next meeting. When first opened, this Spanish-style building was the toast of Idaho, and its charm continues today. Not only does the multi-story atrium provide panoramic views of the Boise Front, a koi pond and several gardens are just outside for your enjoyment.